Audit Findings

Audit Narrative

The auditor's description of the audit methodology should include a detailed description of the following processes during the pre-onsite audit, onsite audit, and post-audit phases: documents and files reviewed, discussions and types of interviews conducted, number of days spent on-site, observations made during the site-review, and a detailed description of any follow-up work conducted during the post-audit phase. The narrative should describe the techniques the auditor used to sample documentation and select interviewees, and the auditor's process for the site review.

The on-site portion of the PREA Audit of the Forest Ridge Academy was conducted November 12-14, 2018. Pre-audit process included the review of documents and records forwarded by the facility some time before the audit. The facility notice had been posted well in advance of the audit visit, and were noticed during the visit as still being visible to staff and students.

The initial meeting was held in the administration building with myself, Jen Sievert (Executive Director), Betsy Stockdale (HR Mgr), Sara Adkins (Clinical Director), Chad Jacobson (Group Living Director) and Shawn Connelly (Assistant Executive Director). During the meeting, the schedule of the audit was discussed. Also, resident and staff rosters were reviewed. From the rosters, the random interview list was compiled by selecting residents

Following the initial meeting, the tour of the facility and buildings was completed. The housing units are located off-campus, with students being transported to the main facility daily. All buildings were visited.

The living units are located at three sites. The first site houses the shelter facility. This portion of the facility may deal with youth of any age under 18. (Recent changes in Iowa law may require the shelter to house infants.) The second site is a building known as "Anita's" The third site has three cottages, Crystal, Eagle and Oak. Directly across from these three cottages is a multipurpose building that is used on weekends for various activities. Buildings were observed to be clean and orderly. They are set up in a dorm setting, with several sleeping rooms, common areas, kitchens, and bathrooms. Bathrooms are located near the common areas and can be monitored by staff easily. Most of the buildings were set up with good line of sight down hallways. The facility is considering adding cameras in at least one of the buildings due to existing blind spots, especially in Anita's, as that building has different levels. However, staff are required to move about the buildings on an on-going basis to deter any abuse. During the tour, most students were already at the facility's main buildings.

The main buildings are located in downtown Gruver, IA. All students are bused to this part of campus daily to participate in school and other activities. Students were well supervised while in the main buildings. Staff were located in and around classrooms and were interacting with students at all times.

At the time of the audit, the population was 56 students. Twelve residents were interviewed, with two interviewed who stated that they had reported abuse and one that identified as LGBTI. Interviews went very well and included youth from every cottage and the shelter. All residents interviewed claimed that they felt safe at Forest Ridge. They all maintained that staff respected their privacy and also that staff cared for their safety. Almost all residents knew reporting methods and had been given appropriate PREA information at intake and within 10 days of intake.

Twelve staff interviews were conducted during the visit. Those interviewed included the HR director, a staff member that is assigned to intake, a MH clinician, a medical practitioner, a supervisor, the group living director and the PREA Compliance Manager and Facility Head. Also, random staff interviews included staff from all shifts and also part-time staff.

Staff interviews also went well. All staff seemed to be well trained, and were able to reiterate all training topics. Especially well understood were the first responder duties and mandatory reporting laws. The facility utilizes Relias Learning for PREA Training. As an independent contractor, I had been hired by Relias several years ago to rewrite their PREA module and know that it touches all required aspects of training listed in standard 115.331.

After interviews, I was able to review records of both staff and residents. For resident files, I determined that the intake PREA resident education session was completed and had been documented. The 10-day resident education sessions are also being done by the nurse and are documented. Also, the risk and vulnerability assessment is being done on all residents admitted to the facility.

For staff records, I conducted a review of a large sample of employee files (20%) and determined that the required background checks and child abuse registry checks are being done and documented. Also, I reviewed training records and found them to be in good order and in compliance with standard 115.331.

At the completion of the audit visit, a report out meeting was held with the management team. We walked through the entire set of standards, spending time on several issues that needed to be addressed. The findings are listed below under each individual standard.

In my opinion, the audit went very well, and the staff at Forest Ridge were very accommodating during the audit.

Facility Characteristics

The auditor's description of the audited facility should include details about the facility type, demographics and size of the inmate, resident or detainee population, numbers and type of staff positions, configuration and layout of the facility, numbers of housing units, description of housing units including any special housing units, a description of programs and services, including food service and recreation. The auditor should describe how these details are relevant to PREA implementation and compliance.

Forest Ridge Youth Services

The mission of Forest Ridge Youth Services is to ensure youth maximize their potential through gender-responsive interventions in a safe setting conducive to personal growth.

Forest Ridge Youth Services is a residential treatment program located in Northwest Iowa that serves young women ages 13-18. The Forest Ridge program has been designed to identify and interrupt unhealthy patterns of thinking and behavior by teaching students to be responsible for themselves and each other, thus creating a healthier value system. Forest Ridge uses a Socially Interactive Environment (students helping students with staff support and supervision) approach to create a setting of care and concern, which helps learning to occur. In a socially interactive environment, every member of the group is responsible for striving for her own personal success as well as helping peers become successful by providing encouragement, leadership, and positive role modeling.

Specific focus areas include individual counseling, group counseling, 7 Thinking Pattern counseling, level packets, substance abuse treatment/education, Behavioral Health Intervention services (BHIS), community service, education, athletics/recreation, family focused treatment, and transition/discharge planning all facilitated in a socially interactive environment.

The Female Specific Programming at Forest Ridge...

- ensures the students feel safe, both emotionally and physically.
- respects different cultures.
- encourages healthy relationships.
- has positive female role models and counselors.
- talks about the abuse in girl's lives.
- focuses on strengths, not weaknesses.
- talks about sexuality, including pregnancy and parenting.
- has strong educational and work-related opportunities.
- talks about the health needs of females, including healthy diets and exercise.
- values the spiritual lives of the students.
- involves members of girls' families, whenever possible.

National Accreditation:

Forest Ridge Youth Services holds accreditation by CARF International for its Children and Adolescents and Juvenile Justice Residential Treatment, Counseling Services for Children and Adolescents and Juvenile Justice, and Juvenile Justice Community Housing and Shelters. The CARF accreditation decision represents the highest level that can be awarded to an organization and the organization's substantial conformance to the CARF standards.

The Program Stages:

The progressive, developmental model of the core program facilitates the evolution of life skills through the presentation and individual application of concepts and skills. The concepts and skills presented are consistent with a youth's progress in the core program. Youth are then challenged to demonstrate their understanding of the new concepts to peers in discussion groups and to provide examples of applications relevant to their own life experiences.

The level system defines specific learning objectives in educational, vocational, and socialization skills, which address changes in delinquent thinking and behavior patterns. Earning promotions in the level system requires a student demonstrate new skills, knowledge, and behavior through their participation in group discussions, written assignments, and personal interactions with peers and staff. Progressing up the level system affords students increased responsibility in the socially interactive environment.

Orientation Level – Learning program rules and roles

Students are first taught how the program works and the roles and responsibilities of both students and staff. Students learn program beliefs, goals, and objectives. Staff and students explain behavior expectations and norms. When girls understand why they are at Forest Ridge and how the program works, they are more prepared to choose success.

Level I – Developing self-awareness of past patterns of thinking and behavior

This level helps students recognize how their past thinking and behaviors have caused them some problems. The first step in making good decisions is to understand why past choices didn't reach their desired outcome.

Level II – Learning the impact of behavior

At this level, students learn how their behaviors have affected themselves and others. Students learn about positive relationships and the motivation to change may begin to come from inside them. That is, students become internally motivated to change and to desire self-improvement beyond merely doing what they are told to do.

Level III – Learning positive options to past thinking and ways of behaving

This level focuses on practicing new skills in decision-making, critical thinking, and problem solving. Students have opportunities to exercise responsibility and to develop trust in leadership roles with peers. Staff members guide students in practicing their new skills and students develop self-confidence that leads to a more positive self-image.

Level IV – Learning to support and add to success

This level teaches girls how to continue making positive changes and add to their foundation for ongoing success after discharge from Forest Ridge. On this level, students have the responsibility of teaching and role modeling for new students who are still adhering to old thinking and behaviors. Doing this helps students reinforce their commitment to their new ways of thinking and behaving. This level also helps girls identify future needs and facilitates the development of plans for resources and supports when they discharge.

Falcons Club

A Falcon serves as a role model and represents the rest of the young women at Forest Ridge. This group of students will have a large influence on the environment and its role in changing behavior. For this reason, a Falcon is given additional opportunities, is well known, and is active in our peer environment. She must demonstrate strong, positive leadership or actively show a commitment and the ability to strengthen these skills with direction and practice.

Individual Program Evaluation:

Forest Ridge provides youth with feedback on Seven Primary Patterns of Thinking and Interaction which outcome research identifies as predictive of post-program success. Feedback from staff keeps the student focused on successes and further development of skills where improvement is still needed. These patterns also serve as criteria for progressive in-program promotion along with their progress on specific program goals.

The Seven Patterns of Thinking and Interaction

- Relating to Adults – the ability to relate to adults by accepting the legitimate authority and responsibilities they have over youth in their care.
- Relating to Peers – the ability to relate to peers of a similar age that is healthy, encouraging, and mutually beneficial to each one's safety, welfare, and pro-social goals.
- Learn from Past Experiences – the ability to see and accept personal responsibility for one's choices.
- Problem Solve – the ability to resolve conflicts fairly through negotiation and compromise.
- Self-Restraint – the ability to exercise control over impulses and delay gratification.
- Managing Emotions – the ability to identify accurately and manage behavior in the presence of strong emotions.
- Verbal & Physical Aggression – the ability to relate to others in circumstances of conflict without the use of physical force, intimidation, or attempts to embarrass or humiliate others.

Program progress is defined by the youth's practice and development of these skills. The system is designed to emphasize the development of positive thinking patterns which are the key to making healthy decisions and insuring long-term success. This process is designed to aid in the acquisition of new knowledge, new thinking patterns, and the development of new skills in preparation for return to the community.

Forest Ridge De-escalation Techniques:

It is necessary within a Socially Interactive Environment to empower the youth to take responsibility for providing help when needed, and accepting help when offered. Our method of applying de-escalation techniques provide a structured tool for youth to learn and utilize problem solving and conflict resolution skills. These skills allow youth to practice problem solving under the supervision and guidance of the staff as they interact with each other on a daily basis. Ultimately, our methods of de-escalation are intended to reduce high tension levels as well as address behavior.

Counseling Program:

Clinical and counseling services that are provided to youth in the Forest Ridge Residential Treatment program include individual, group, crisis, and family counseling, when possible. Levels of counseling services include paraprofessional Primary Counseling, Bachelor's level

Behavioral Health Intervention Services Counseling, and Master's level therapy services. Substance Abuse Treatment is provided by Forest Ridge Substance Abuse Counselor. On-site psychiatric services are delivered by an area provider.

Assessments and Treatment Planning

The individualized treatment plan created by admissions, group living, and counseling staff and reviewed throughout the youth's program includes clinical and counseling services and staff.

Within the first week of admission, young women submit to a clinical services initial psychosocial diagnostic assessment. For Iowa Medicaid students, this initial diagnostic assessment includes the Licensed Practitioner of the Healing Arts (LPHA) assessment that drives their Behavioral Health Intervention Services (BHIS) Implementation Plan.

Consumer Health Inventory (CHI) and Consumer Health Inventory: Child (CHI-C) are self-report measures to screen for depression, anxiety, substance use, and assesses functional health status, strengths, symptoms, substance use and recovery status. Youth 14 and older utilize the CHI and those younger than 14 utilize the CHI-C.

Family Involvement:

Families play an important role in the success of the student, and family participation is an important part of the program. The primary goal is to provide support and help to families whose children are trying to change and to involve families in supporting staff at Forest Ridge who are teaching their child to use these new skills. Parental ownership of and involvement in the program helps the family reunify.

Trauma informed interventions and treatment practices

Forest Ridge employs a Trauma Informed Care Training Facilitator, who provides Level 1, 2 and 3 Trauma Informed Care training to all employees. The Facilitator is trained by the Child Welfare Training Academy (CWTA) in partnership with the Midwest Trauma Services Network (MTSN).

Traumatic experiences can be terrifying, singular or multiple compounding events over time, and often include betrayal of a trusted person or institution and a loss of safety. Trauma can result from experiences of violence. Trauma includes physical, sexual and institutional abuse, neglect, inter-generational trauma, and disasters that induce powerlessness, fear, recurrent hopelessness, and a constant state of alert. Trauma impacts one's spirituality and relationships with self, others, communities and environment, often resulting in recurring feelings of shame, guilt, rage, isolation, and disconnection. Healing is possible.

Trauma-informed care is an approach to engaging people with histories of trauma that recognizes the presence of trauma symptoms and acknowledges the role that trauma has played in their lives. Trauma informed care is one topic that has increasing interest in receiving training, especially around principles, practical application and resources. There is much work going on in Iowa around trauma informed care. One of our goals is to create a common understanding – which is why our focus will be on Understanding Trauma Program

Forest Ridge agrees, supports and maintains the belief that “trauma results from an event, series of events or set of circumstances that is experienced by an individual as physically or emotionally harmful or threatening and that has lasting adverse effects on the individual’s functioning and physical, social, emotional or spiritual well-being” (SAMHSA.gov).

Forest Ridge recognizes trauma can affect young women from all races, ethnicities, age groups, sexual orientations, genders, sexual orientations, and geographic regions. Forest Ridge also recognizes traumas can affect individuals, families, communities, cultures and have a lasting impact on generations.

Integrating Trauma Informed Care (TIC) into our services provides benefits for our youth we serve, families, communities, collaborative agencies and staff. Forest Ridge utilizes TIC to reinforce the importance of staff acquiring trauma-specific knowledge, recognizing the needs of each youth and the importance of addressing these needs individually rather than generally applying treatment approaches.

TIC is a part of our philosophic belief in working with youth. All services from a campus tour to discharge are delivered through a trauma informed lens. Forest Ridge recognizes how this lens has improved our screening and assessment process, treatment planning and placement and lowers the probability of re-traumatization of the youth we serve.

Forest Ridge supports teaching young women to have a sense of hope about their futures. Forest Ridge promotes building hope through consistency in service delivery, promoting safety (physically and emotionally) and showing respect and compassion within all relationships. As youth have an increased sense of hope they begin to forward plan. Successful navigation through situations that are or have been emotionally charged or too stressful in the past teaches them mastery of skills. This mastery of skills allows a change in attitude to assertiveness. Through repetition youth begin to understand that discomfort is not a signal to avoid but a sign to engage. Thus, when presented with triggers from past experienced trauma, youth recognize this as a normal part of recovery and manage their responses.

The Trauma-Informed Care approach to services has found a welcome home at Forest Ridge, as the recommendations for female-responsive services have long included the understanding that young women entering the system have often been the victims of traumatic events, causing them emotional, psychological, and physical wounds. The specialized work of helping young women begin to heal their wounds and become healthier members of society has included a trauma-informed component at Forest Ridge for nearly two decades.

Physical Plant:

Forest Ridge is located in rural Iowa. The students reside in cottages of 15 youth. The beautiful layout of the campus has the view of a lake. Eagle, Crystal and Oak Hall are all on the main campus. Anita Cottage is a family home that was remodeled to accommodate 15 youth. It is located close to the main campus. The Shelter Building is located 8 miles from the main center, and by original design a more institutional looking. However, as with all the locations, Forest Ridge has transformed the buildings into a homelike setting with decorations and helping students to personalize their space. The Forest Ridge students ride the FR School Bus to the Forest Ridge School for onsite education. The Forest Ridge youth are able to participate in high school volleyball, basketball, and track.

These recommendations must be included in the Final Report, accompanied by information on specific corrective actions taken by the facility.

The facility has policy to mandate rounds and to document them. Unannounced rounds originally were not being documented well during A and B shifts. C shift documentation was furnished to the auditor. The facility has begun to document the rounds on A and B shifts and the documentation has been submitted to the auditor for a significant period of time.

Also, there is policy to prohibit staff from alerting other staff of the rounds as they are being completed.

The staffing plan is reviewed and meets the requirements of 115.313.

Auditor Overall Compliance Determination

- Exceeds Standard (Substantially exceeds requirement of standards)
- Meets Standard (Substantial compliance; complies in all material ways with the standard for the relevant review period)
- Does Not Meet Standard (Requires Corrective Action)

Instructions for Overall Compliance Determination Narrative

The narrative below must include a comprehensive discussion of all the evidence relied upon in making the compliance or non-compliance determination, the auditor's analysis and reasoning, and the auditor's conclusions. This discussion must also include corrective action recommendations where the facility does not meet the standard. These recommendations must be included in the Final Report, accompanied by information on specific corrective actions taken by the facility.

The facility treats the privacy of the youth as being very important. Searches in Sequel facilities goes above and beyond what is required by PREA. For example, this standard requires no strip searches or pat searches by staff of the opposite gender without exigent circumstances being involved. Sequel does not do strip searches or pat searches. The residents pull out pockets, show staff their property instead. The training on how to do searches at a Sequel facility meets the search requirement in 115.315 f and emphasizes professional and respectful methods. The facility's searches meet the "least intrusive manner" better than most correctional facilities.

It was determined through interviews that the cross-gender announcement is not being done effectively at the time of the visit. In speaking with staff and the executive director, several opportunities during the daily routine were identified to make the announcement more effectively. Wording was also discussed with the Executive Director.

Policy exists that require the announcements in policy 441.114.13(5)II C.

It was decided that follow up phone call interviews with several residents would be done during the Interim Report period or the Corrective Action Period to determine the effectiveness of the cross gender announcement.

Auditor's Note: During the period of time preceding the issuance of the Interim Report, follow up phone calls were conducted and several residents were interviewed with regard to the cross-gender announcement. The residents interviewed not only told me that they hear the announcement, but once staff start the announcement, residents finish making the announcement. Also, one interviewee stated that the longer tenured (higher level) residents make the announcement themselves to the rest of the group. I judged that this practice fully meets the standard and exemplifies the spirit of this requirement by not only instructing the students, but utilizing the students' participation in the announcement to teach the younger students.

It is due to the search techniques/training and the unique way that Forest Ridge is conducting the cross gender announcement that I have ruled that the facility exceeds this standard.
